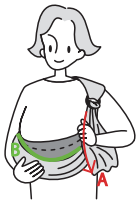
How to adjust the sling

Sling sections show in different colours for easy interpretation.

Pull the outside of the fabric (Part A)
to tighten the inner side of the sling
closer to the body (Part B)



Pull the inside of the fabric (Part A)
to tighten the outer side of the sling
closer to the body (Part B)

Futher adjustment for a better fit

If you feel that the sling is still not tight enough,
you can adjust by not only pulling down but also by pulling up. Please ensure you support your baby
the whole time you are making sling adjustment.
Once you get the fit right the fist time
you will know what you are aiming for and subsequent wear will become easy-peasy.

Using the sling for the first time

While the sling is a great way to carry your baby, it must be used correctly.
Is it important that the sling should be properly adjusted to carry your baby securely and provide maximum comfort to the wearer.
Incorrect position of the sling will cause the baby to drag on your body
so please, consider these tips to create a positive carrying experience for you and your baby.

- Practice using the sling with a doll first.
- Make sure that the fabric is not twisted, especially over your back.
- The lowest part of the sling must be above your waistline
  Otherwese, there will be drag on the body of the weaer.
- Make sure baby is content when using the sling for the first time.